Monthly Report: Equity President's Activities - July 2024

July has been a busy and productive month as your TUSA Equity President. I've had the opportunity to participate in a variety of important discussions, events, and meetings that have significantly contributed to our shared goal of promoting equity and inclusion across all UTAS campuses.

Chaired by myself, our TUSA Equity Committee meetings for the first time brought together our newly appointed equity officers, fostering a collaborative environment to discuss and address various equity issues.

The TUSA team meetings, State Council meetings, and interactions with the UTAS Riawunna NAIDOC event underscored the importance of community engagement and cultural celebration. These events are vital for fostering a sense of belonging and inclusivity within our diverse student body. With such a diverse student population I'm looking forward to implementing and advocating on issues that matter based on the recommendations of our TUSA Equity officers.

In our ongoing efforts to enhance campus life, I participated in the TUSA Clubs and Societies Council, Mini Clubs and Societies Day at Sandy Bay, and the SHaG Market Day. These events highlighted the vibrant student life at UTAS and the essential role of clubs and societies in promoting equity and inclusion.

Looking ahead, we are actively brainstorming innovative ways to utilize the $500 allocated to each equity officer. This funding is a significant resource that can support various initiatives aimed at enhancing equity within our university community. We are excited about the potential projects and the positive impact they will have.

Thank you for your continued support and engagement. Together, we are working towards a more equitable and inclusive environment for all students at UTAS.
