Narrative update:

After a well-deserved 3 weeks off, the Rozelle campus is back up and firing for the penultimate semester for our final year nursing and paramedicine students! Similarly, our first year students have now entered their second semester of their degrees – a massive step-up! July is no easy month for our Rozellians...

These past 4 weeks have been a bit slow to get moving, as students have been keeping a low profile before placements begin next week. PaceMates TUSA is in the midst of a winter hiatus, but it can be expected to return later in the year when the weather starts getting warmer!

Last week the campus hosted the very first Rozelle Vent Tent, on both Wednesday and Friday, and although attendance was low, with more publicity and better scheduling, the future looks bright!

In the preparations for Shag Week, last Thursday students were lucky enough to attend a presentation put together by ConsentLab regarding sexual assault awareness and prevention.

Other than those few updates, it has been business as usual 😊
